

The life of the Viking named Bob

Scene 1:

Scene setting: Bob's hut and the war room.

This scene is about Bob waking up in his hut and getting woken up by his dad, who is the chief; and how he gets embarrassed by the best warrior in the village.

Chief: BOB!!! Wake up it is time for the council to get to the war room and your coming with me whether you like it or not!

Bob:(yawning.) Ok, let me get out of bed first and eat breakfast.

Chief: Now! Am I lazy? No! So get out of bed and get changed, Now.

Bob: Ok.(I'll be there after I eat breakfast first).

(Chief leaves Bob's hut.)

Bob: Ok, time for me to prepare for the meeting in the war room.

(Bob goes over to get some bread and takes a loaf out.)

(Chief enters war room)

(Bob enters the war room)

Harold: Hello chief is that my dinner? That looks more like a fish stick.

Bob: Hey! I am nobodies dinner!

Chief: And that just signed your death!

Harold: It was a joke, I'm sorry.

Chief: Sorry won't fix it!

(Chief goes over to Harold and picks him up and drags him outside.)

Harold: (voice fades away) "I'm sorry I really mean it, please forgive me, I'm sorrrrrrrrrryyyyyy."

Members of council: (whispering and laughing at Bob.) “Well there goes our best warrior thanks Bob. Well this meeting was horrible I’m leaving.”

Bob:(holding back tears.) I'm going to get myself a snack and then prepare the ships for departure.

(Bob leaves the war room and heads back to his hut, crying.)